Continued execution of our key priorities delivering first green shoots

I. Sales

- Sales productivity continuing to improve through intensified commercial focus
- Commercial initiatives are starting to provide results:
 - Increase in number of active customers of ~1,000 in North America
 - Global rollout of more flexible and granular pricing approach
- BSP customer project pipeline actively expanded

II. Clarity & simplification

- Positive customer feedback on simplified internal structures and leaner organization
- Further refining of organization in EMEA and North America
- Market rollout of further AI commercial applications (in particular in pricing, customer insights)

III. Execution

- Accelerated execution of cost-out measures materially contributed EUR 41m savings in Q2, up from EUR 27m in Q1
- Chemtech, Airedale and Quimica Delta integrations on track. Additional bolt on acquisition of Woojin Trading (South Korea) in BSP Beauty & Care

Q2 2026 Cost-out

Cost-out program well on track

Effects from the cost-out program

vs. 2025 cost base, in EUR m

Brenntag delivered EUR 165m in gross savings in FY 2025 vs 2023 baseline

Key developments

- Effects from cost-out program amounting to EUR 41m in Q2 2026
- Focused on sustained reduction in central costs
 - Organic reduction of ~500 FTE in 2026
 - Decrease in discretionary spent including consulting
- General inflationary trends counterbalancing cost-out effects
 - Selected salary and merit increase
 - Fuel and energy costs increased by impacts from Middle East crisis
- Reminder: Cost-out program new target EUR 200-250m in savings vs 2025 baseline until 2027

Q2 2026 Opex

Accelerated cost-out delivery and continuing cost discipline

Q2 2026 Opex development YoY*

In EUR m

Key developments

- Opex increase YoY reflects strong operational performance
 - Higher bonus provisions vs. prior year
 - Incentivization of salesforce
- Cost-out efforts overcompensate opex inflation
 - EUR 41m cost-out program benefits
 - Partly offset by general inflationary trends and Middle East effects, esp. higher fuel and energy costs
- Overall, Q2 2026 opex development underlines focus on sustained cost reduction, also reflected in improved conversion margin

Q2 2026 Op. EBITDA

Strong organic growth supported by positive pricing trends

Op. EBITDA development YoY

In EUR m

Key developments

- Demand remained resilient despite continued geopolitical uncertainty
- Strong commercial execution and margin management in Q2 2026
- FX headwinds sequentially decreasing, recently closed acquisitions contributing
- Organic growth in both divisions as well as across all regions (BES) and segments (BSP)
- Brenntag Essentials benefiting from strong gross profit per unit trends, esp. in oil-based products
- Positive pricing trends increasingly visible in Brenntag Specialties
- Cost-out measures mitigating inflationary trends in personnel cost increases as well as energy and fuel costs

Operating EBITDA guidance 2026 raised

Guidance

- Brenntag currently expects an Operating EBITDA for the 2026 financial year:

At a range of EUR 1,350–1,450 million

- The outlook incorporates the solid start to the third quarter, reinforcing confidence for the remainder of the year
- At the same time, the macroeconomic environment remains uncertain, with continued volatility and the risk of softer demand in the second half of the year

Mixed regional market conditions: Customers remain prudent

North America

- Resilient demand in key end markets
- Supplier-led price increases in both industrial and specialty chemicals
- Relative outperformance vs other geographies

Latin America

- Elevated pricing volatility driven by currency movements and feedstock fluctuations
- Flat volume development in industrial chemicals

EMEA

- Structural pressures persist, higher pricing levels mitigate labor and energy costs
- Demand environment remains subdued, particularly in industrial chemicals, mixed performance in specialty chemicals

APAC

- Continued price volatility and competitive pricing environment
- Demand remains uneven across the region
- Increased transportation cost levels

Global

- Tensions from the Middle East Crisis continuing to pose risks to global supply chains
- Customer purchasing behavior remains cautious, with limited visibility for the remainder of the year
- Market conditions remain mixed across regions

Cautious market outlook persists across divisions and segments

Brenntag Essentials

- End-market demand remains subdued across most sectors
- Prices expected to normalize further from peak levels

North America

- Demand outlook remains healthy
- Pricing expected to stabilize at elevated levels

Latin America

- Demand outlook remains stable
- Chinese product flows expected to influence pricing dynamics

APAC

- Pricing to normalize further remaining above pre-crisis levels
- High prices expected to weigh on consumption

Brenntag Specialties

Life Science

- Mixed volume trends in Nutrition, higher demand for value-added products such as supplements and protein-based nutrition
- Beauty & Care expected to benefit from stable underlying demand
- Mixed demand trends in Pharma, while pricing remains resilient

Material Science

- Demand expected to remain stable throughout the second half of the year
- New partnerships with leading suppliers continue to create growth opportunities
- Energy-market volatility is expected to remain elevated, supporting opportunities in Performance Materials and Lubricants

Overall, visibility for 2026 remains limited, with sales, market volumes and profitability expected to vary significantly across regions and end markets.
