Major events impacting on business

At the end of February, Brenntag closed the acquisition of Airedale Group based in Keighley, North Yorkshire, United Kingdom. The acquisition complements and develops Brenntag UK's service offering and expertise by adding blending, formulation and dilution capabilities. It also enhances the breadth of products, services and capabilities available to customers, which are supported by regional supply chain infrastructure and global reach. In 2025, Airedale Group generated annual sales of GBP 77 million.

1.01 Business performance of the Brenntag Group

The Brenntag Group generated sales of EUR 3,662 million in the first quarter of 2026, a decline of 10.1% compared with the prior-year period. On a constant currency basis, sales were down by 5.1% on the prior-year figure. This performance is due to a meaningful fall in sales prices and slightly lower volumes.

The Brenntag Group's operating gross profit came to EUR 950 million in the first quarter of 2026, a year-on-year decline of 6.8% (on a constant currency basis: 1.3%). The two divisions saw both a slight decline in volumes and a moderate decline in operating gross profit per unit.

The Brenntag Group's operating expenses amounted to EUR 644 million in the first quarter of 2026, a decrease of 3.1% (on a constant currency basis: an increase of 2.4%). In addition to the effects of the cost-reduction program, such as a reduction in communication, advisory and energy costs, exchange rate effects also had a positive impact on the trend in costs. This was partly offset, among others, by higher provisions for bonuses.

The Brenntag Group's operating EBITDA was down by 13.8% (on a constant currency basis: 8.3%) on the prior-year figure to EUR 306 million in the first quarter of 2026. The decline is mainly due to the weaker performance at operating gross profit level, which was not offset by a moderate reduction in costs.

Expenses for strategy projects	- 16	- 4
Expenses for legal risks	- 5	- 5
Other special items	-	- 2
Net expense from special items	- 21	- 11

1.02 Net expense from special items

Expenses for strategy projects amounted to EUR 16 million in the first quarter of 2026. They mainly include severance and advisory expenses which will help to achieve the cost-reduction targets.

In the reporting period, expenses of EUR 5 million were recognized for legal risks in connection with the sale of talc and similar products in North America.

Depreciation and impairment of property, plant and equipment and right-of-use assets, and amortization and impairment of intangible assets amounted to EUR 105 million in the first quarter of 2026 (Q1 2025: EUR 109 million).

Net finance costs came to EUR 33 million in the first quarter of 2026 (Q1 2025: EUR 42 million). The year-on-year change was mainly the result of two effects. On the one hand, net interest expense widened from EUR 34 million to EUR 36 million due primarily to the fact that, in the previous year, the bond maturing in 2025 was refinanced by issuing a bond carrying higher interest rates due to market terms. On the other, income arose on the translation of foreign currency receivables and liabilities, whereas this item had resulted in an expense in the same period of 2025.

Income tax expense decreased by EUR 9 million year on year to EUR 48 million in the first quarter of 2026 due to the lower profit before tax.

Profit after tax stood at EUR 99 million in the first quarter of 2026 (Q1 2025: EUR 136 million).

1.04 Business performance in the reportable segments / Brenntag Specialties

¹⁾ The difference between the sum total of the reportable segments and a particular division is the result of central activities which are part of the division but not directly attributable to any one segment.

Operating gross profit in the Brenntag Specialties division came to EUR 284 million in the first quarter of 2026, a year-on-year decrease of 6.5%. On a constant currency basis, operating gross profit in the Brenntag Specialties division declined by 1.9%. The Life Science segment showed a meaningful decrease on the prior-year figure. This performance is due to both a meaningful fall in volumes and a moderate fall in operating gross profit per unit. The Material Science segment's operating gross profit was roughly in line with the prior-year figure. A meaningful increase in volumes offset a meaningful decline in operating gross profit per unit.

Operating EBITDA in the Brenntag Specialties division came to EUR 119 million in the first quarter of 2026, a decrease of 2.9% on the prior-year figure. On a constant currency basis, this represents an increase of 2.6% compared with the prior-year period. While the Life Science segment posted a meaningful decline in operating EBITDA, the Material Science segment achieved moderate growth. The result in the Life Science segment was driven by the aforementioned performance at operating gross profit level. On a constant currency basis, operating EBITDA rose slightly. In the Material Science segment, operating EBITDA benefited from a reduction in maintenance, transport and travel costs, among other things. In addition, earnings were positively impacted by a lower internal allocation of costs from "Group and Regional Services".

1.05 Business performance in the reportable segments / Brenntag Essentials

¹⁾ The difference between the sum total of the reportable segments and a particular division is the result of central activities which are part of the division but not directly attributable to any one segment.

Operating gross profit in the Brenntag Essentials division came to EUR 666 million in the first quarter of 2026, a year-on-year decrease of 6.9%. On a constant currency basis, operating gross profit was down slightly on the prior-year figure. With the exception of the EMEA and Latin America segments, all other segments posted a decline in operating gross profit. Operating gross profit in the EMEA segment was up slightly on the prior-year figure. The negative trend in the North America segment was driven by a substantial decline in operating gross profit per unit. Despite a meaningful increase in volumes, the Latin America segment reports operating gross profit roughly in line with the prior-year figure; on a constant currency basis, it shows moderate growth. The APAC segment likewise posted a substantial decline in operating gross profit, but on an organic basis showed a meaningful increase.

Operating EBITDA in the Brenntag Essentials division came in at EUR 212 million in the first quarter of 2026, a year-on-year decrease of 16.9% (on a constant currency basis: 11.8%). All segments posted at least a meaningful decline in operating EBITDA. The EMEA segment recorded a moderate rise in costs due to higher lease expenses and costs attributable to the acquisitions made. Both the North America segment and the APAC segment failed to offset the aforementioned performance at operating gross profit level by reducing costs, as a result of which operating EBITDA is down significantly on the prior-year figure. In the Latin America segment, the change in operating EBITDA was determined by a moderate increase in costs.

Group and Regional Services

In addition to the central functions for the entire Group, “Group and Regional Services” also include the regional service functions and the activities with regard to the digitalization of Brenntag’s business.

Overall, the operating EBITDA of “Group and Regional Services” came to EUR - 25 million in the first quarter of 2026, a decrease of EUR 2 million compared with the prior-year period. Overall, costs before allocations showed a moderate reduction, which was more than offset by the change in internal cost allocations.

1.06 Cash flow

Net cash provided by operating activities was down significantly on the prior-year figure to EUR 133 million in the first quarter of 2026. In addition to the decline in earnings, this is due to the year-on-year increase in funds tied up in working capital.

The main drivers of the net cash of EUR 91 million used in financing activities in the first quarter of 2026 were borrowings and repayments of bank loans and repayments of lease liabilities.

Of the net cash used in investing activities in the first quarter of 2026, EUR 59 million comprised payments to acquire intangible assets and property, plant and equipment. Payments to acquire consolidated subsidiaries, other business units and other financial assets related to the acquisition of all shares in Airedale Group based in Keighley, North Yorkshire, UK.

1.07 Free cash flow

The Brenntag Group's free cash flow amounted to EUR 91 million in the first quarter of 2026, a decrease of EUR 72 million compared with the same period of 2025. This is due especially to the decline in operating EBITDA.

1.08 Net assets

As at March 31, 2026, total assets had increased by EUR 576 million compared with the end of the previous year to EUR 11,202 million (Dec. 31, 2025: EUR 10,626 million). The rise is due largely to the increase in working capital from EUR 1,893 million to EUR 2,034 million and the acquisition of Airedale Group in the UK.

At 7.5, annualized working capital turnover was higher than in financial year 2025 (7.3) and slightly lower than in the first quarter of 2025 (7.6).

The Brenntag Group's non-current assets rose by EUR 240 million year on year to EUR 6,276 million (Dec. 31, 2025: EUR 6,036 million). The increase is due predominantly to the acquisition of Airedale Group.

Outlook

While Brenntag observes some positive signs in certain markets, particularly pharma and the energy sector, the global economic environment remains subdued. The Brenntag Group expects 2026 to be a financial year shaped by muted global economic demand, geopolitical tensions such as the ongoing war in Ukraine and the uncertainty in the Middle East, and sustained moderate inflationary pressures. Moreover, at the time of preparation of the report, it is unclear how the situation will develop in the Strait of Hormuz and what response will follow from the countries affected. This continues to result in a greater-than-average degree of uncertainty over global supply chains and growth expectations for the global economy. According to the latest forecast from Oxford Economics, the global economy, measured in terms of industrial production (IP), is expected to grow by 2.5% in 2026. Weighted by the sales generated by Brenntag in the individual countries, this results in a forecast average real IP growth rate of +1.6% in 2026, below the IP growth rate forecast at the beginning of the year.

Brenntag confirms its outlook for operating EBITDA in financial year 2026 and continues to expect earnings between EUR 1,150 million and EUR 1,350 million.

Brenntag confirms this full-year outlook based on the solid YTD performance, supported by the most recent positive pricing dynamics, while we continue to monitor macroeconomic and demand developments.

Opportunities and risks

The Brenntag Group companies are exposed to a number of risks arising from their business activities in the field of chemical distribution and related areas. At the same time, these business activities also give rise to numerous opportunities to safeguard and foster the Group's competitiveness and growth.

Periods of economic weakness could negatively impact Brenntag's revenue and gross profit. A further escalation of protectionist tendencies in the United States, high levels of public debt, and persistent inflationary pressure could lead to a significant economic slowdown and, consequently, declining demand in our core markets.

In connection with the sale of talc and similar products, actions have been brought against our North American subsidiaries, against which the Brenntag Group is actively defending itself. Taking into account legal advisory costs, the expense amounted to EUR 5 million in the first quarter of 2026. The underlying cases are continuously monitored and the provisions adjusted as and when necessary. In addition, Brenntag has taken measures to mitigate the risk and is asserting claims for compensation from third parties. Nevertheless, the possibility that these legal disputes might result in further significant adverse effects on the results of operations cannot be ruled out.

Overall, there were no further significant changes for the Brenntag Group in the first quarter of 2026 compared with the opportunities and risks described in detail in the 2025 Annual Report. Risks that we are currently unaware of or that we currently consider immaterial might also negatively impact our business operations. Currently, there are no indications of risks that may jeopardize the continued existence of the company.

2.05 Segment reporting on the global Specialties division Q1 2026/2025

²⁾ The prior-year figures were adjusted to reflect the current portfolio allocation.

³⁾ Certain items of property, plant and equipment and right-of-use assets are not separable and support both divisions jointly. They have been allocated to a division (depending on the region) and are depreciated there. They are charged to the other division on the basis of fixed and variable monthly amounts.

⁴⁾ Segment operating EBITDA is calculated as segment EBITDA adjusted for holding charges and special items.

⁵⁾ Segment operating EBITA is calculated as segment EBITA adjusted for holding charges and special items.
